

Yulia Gradskova graduated from the History department of the Moscow state university and worked as a researcher of gender problems at Moscow state university in the period 1997-2002. Currently she is a PhD student in History at the Södertörn University College (Sweden), completing her thesis dealing with practices of maternity and beauty in Soviet Russia, 1930-1960s. In her research she uses the analysis of publications for women and oral history for exploration of femininities enacted through Soviet everyday practices.